

How To Make Us Your Home Page

WWW.BMZCHURCH.ORG

Internet Explorer for Windows

1. Pull down the "Tools" menu of Internet Explorer.
2. Select "Internet Options."
3. The "General" tab appears.
4. You'll see the "Home page" box at the top.
5. Click the "Use Current" button in that box.
6. Click "OK."
7. Close and open Internet Explorer. You should see your new home page.

Firefox for any operating system

Changing your home page in Firefox is easy. Just follow these steps:

1. Browse normally to the web page you want as your home page.
2. Pull down the "Tools" menu of Firefox.
3. Select "Options."
4. Click on the "General" tab, if it is not the first to appear.
5. You'll see the "Home Page" box at the top.
6. Click the "Use Current Page" button in that box.
7. Click "OK."
8. Close and open Firefox. You should see your new home page.

Safari for MacOS X

Changing your home page in Safari isn't tough either:

1. Browse normally to the web page you want as your home page.
2. Pull down the "Safari" menu.
3. Select "Preferences."
4. Click on the "General" tab.
5. Note the "Home page:" field and the "Set to Current Page" button beneath it.
6. Click "Set to Current Page."
7. Click the red "close" button in the upper left corner of the preferences dialog.
8. Close and open Safari. You should see your new home page.

Opera

Opera changes the home page in pretty much the same way as the rest:

1. Browse normally to the web page you want as your home page.
2. Pull down the "Tools" menu.
3. Select "Preferences..."
4. The "Preferences" dialog box appears. Click on the "General" tab.
5. Note the "Home page" field and the "Use Current" button to the right of it.
6. Click "Use Current."
7. Click "OK."

Special Opera note: by default, Opera doesn't load your home page when you start it up. Opera comes to the same pages you were looking at when you shut down your computer last.

The home page is loaded only if Opera crashes or you close all of your Opera windows intentionally before restarting. If you wish to change this behavior, change the selection in the "Startup" menu at the top of the "General" tab to "Start with home page."

Netscape Instructions:

1. Pull down the "Edit" menu and select "Preferences".
2. Select "Navigator" from the category list.
3. Click on the "Home Page" button under "Navigator starts with" (or possibly "Browser starts with").
4. Enter "http://vetmedicine.about.com" (without the quotes) as your home page location.
5. Click on "OK".

Later, when you restart Netscape or click the "Home" button you will be brought directly to the VetMed home page (or other page you have selected).

For older (pre 4.0) versions of Netscape:

1. Pull down the "Options" menu and select "General Preferences".
Select the "Appearance" tab.
2. Click on the "Home Page" button.
3. Enter "http://vetmedicine.about.com" (without the quotes) as your home page location.
4. Click on "OK".

Later, when you restart Netscape or click the "Home" button you will be brought directly to the VetMed home page (or page you have selected).

Other Browsers

If you use a browser other than Netscape or MSIE, please consult the instructions for that individual browser for how to set homepages. Not all browsers have this feature.
